DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group I in the reply filed on 1/10/2005 is acknowledged.

Specification

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Specifically the title should be directed to an aspect of the claimed invention to distinguish from other plasma display panels.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hirano et al. (US 2003/0030377).

Regarding claims 1 and 2, Hirano discloses (See Figure 1), a gas discharge panel including a front substrate (11), electrodes (12) formed on the substrate, a dielectric layer (13) formed on the substrate and electrodes, and a protection layer (14) formed on the dielectric layer.

Art Unit: 2879

(Page 2 paragraphs 27 and 28). The protection layer includes hydrogen atoms as a voltage-reducing compound. (Page 2 paragraphs 16 and 17).

Regarding claim 4, the hydrogen atoms are included in a concentration of up to 10 atoms per 100 atoms of MgO. Therefore the % by weight is approximately 0.25%.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kawamura (US 2002/0195938).

Regarding claims 5 and 6, Hirano discloses the device as claimed (See rejection of claim 1 above) and further discloses the use of a phosphor film on the bottom substrate facing the discharge space. However Hirano does not appear to specify the properties of the phosphors used. However Kawamura, in the same field of endeavor, discloses the use of $\text{BaAl}_{12}\text{O}_{19}:\text{Mn}$ for the phosphor in a gas discharge panel. The phosphor combination, including the green phosphor above, disclosed by Kawamura advantageously does not increase the driving voltage of the discharge panel and does not deteriorate quickly. Thus, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skills in the art to incorporate the phosphor combination taught by Kawamura into the gas discharge panel as disclosed by Hirano in order to advantageously not increase the driving voltage of the discharge panel and not deteriorate quickly.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 3 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Regarding claim 3, the references of the Prior Art of record fails to teach or suggest the combination of the limitations as set forth in claim 3, and specifically comprising the limitation of a gas discharge panel including a protective film with a voltage reducing compound where, the voltage reducing compound is one of the following compounds: 1-propanol, diethylene glycol monobutyl ether acetate, methane, a-terpineol and 1-butanol.
